Subject: Public Comment

Why are officials choosing not to video conference the council meetings?
On average, how many 'viewers' attend these teleconference meetings?
What is being done to capitalize on this unique opportunity to reach more people regularly and how is the city effectively encouraging more public comment and participation in our local government and issues?
Is technology and the application of digital media a major priority for the city? Are we capable of being leaders for other municipalities in this age of essential technologies?

Thank you,

Timothy Ellis Riley
